

ANOTHER JOLT
FOR FIREMENOrdinance For Increase of Their Salary Again Killed By The Council.

SOLEMN WARNING BY BUSE

That The City Is Spending Too Much Money.—Business of Session.

Just as the firemen's long dreamed of increase in salary seemed about to become a reality they woke up again last night and found they had only been dreaming again.

Over a year ago an ordinance providing for an increase was passed but was vetoed by the mayor on the ground that the increase would not be legal, it being held the firemen are officers of the city and not merely employees. Several times since propositions for the increase have been brought up in the council but were sidetracked on the same grounds that were responsible for killing the original ordinance. Some time ago the chairman of the state board of accounts it was announced had ruled in a case which came up from Lebanon that firemen are employees and increases of salary would be legal. Following the publication of this ruling a new ordinance was introduced in the Seymour council providing an increase of salary for the local fire fighters from $540 to $600 a year. The ordinance took its regular course and Thursday evening came up for third reading and was placed on its passage.

It however met the same fate as similar measures in the past. Hodapp, W. R. Day and Sherman Day voted for the ordinance and Buse, Davison and Misch voted against it. As Tasker was not present the mayor was called upon to decide the tie and cast his vote against the ordinance.

Street Commissioner Burrell also received a jolt. For some time during the dull season he has been doing extra work serving as an extra police, receiving a small extra recompense. The council decided that as the busy time on the street had come that his work as a police officer shall now cease.

Chairman Buse of the finance committee sounded a solemn note of warning to the council regarding city finances. He said the council has been spending a large amount of money during the past three months although little street work has yet been done and that now that the expensive time with much street work was at hand prospects look alarming. With numerous street improvements being ordered, carrying with them heavy expenditures for the city in the payment of the cost of intersections, there seemed to him a strong prospect that the city might have to issue street bonds or improvement certificates and the city is liable to get into a bad way financially. His gloomy view did not seem to create much stir and one councilman said that if the people along leading streets are willing to pay improvement costs he believed the city ought altogether to provide for the extra intersection costs.

John Goodale was appointed inspector on the alley to be improved in the rear of the interurban station and Tom Stout was appointed inspector for the Jeffersonville Avenue work.

Several such inspectors having been appointed recently Davison moved that their wages be fixed at $1.25 a day. Some of the councilmen thought this too low and the motion failed to carry. Sherman Day then moved that the pay be $1.75 a day; this motion also lost. Buse then moved that the pay be $1.50 but there was no second and the matter remained unsettled.

Silas Ruddick resigned as street sweeper and Steve Thomas was appointed to succeed him.

Hodapp was appointed to see Southeastern officials regarding removal of old unused track near park.

On petition of property owners the engineer was instructed to make plans and report on proposition to put in sewer from sewer on Oak street at Oesting street intersection, thence along Oesting street to Jackson and then to east line of Chestnut. The petition was signed by J. H. Kamman, Clara, Alice and Carl Oesting, J. H. Holtman, Carrie Fodermark, A. O. Moulder and Mrs. J. H. Notling.

Condition of small bridge at end of South Pine street ordered investigated.

The street commissioner was ordered to investigate and if possible remedy conditions in several sections where water is standing in streets and alleys. Conditions on North Indianapolis Ave. were reported bad. Davison stated that he understood property owners there are preparing a petition asking for the improvement of that street with gravel.

The city attorney was ordered to prepare papers for the condemnation of Robinson house on Mill street regarding which complaints were made some time ago.

Buse of the finance committee made a report of investigation at hospital on behalf of the city. It showed receipts from fees to March 6 to have been $3268.20; cash from general fund $257.39. Expenditures $3489.01, balance $36.58, unpaid bills $144.

EIGHT ANNIVERSARY

Of Organization of Rebekah Lodge Observed.

Seymour Rebekah lodge No. 667, observed the eighth anniversary of its organization Thursday evening in the Odd Fellows' hall. About two hundred persons were present, including the Odd Fellows, the Rebekahs and members of their families. For the occasion the hall was decorated in pink and green and with the national colors. A splendid program was given and following it a two course luncheon was served. The entire evening was much enjoyed by the company.

The lodge held a regular business meeting early in the evening, following which the guests were admitted for the program and the social. The following was the program:

In her address the noble grand gave some interesting facts regarding the local lodge and the Rebekah order in general. The Seymour lodge was organized in 1904 with 14 charter members. Today the membership is 193 and it is recognized as one of the strong Rebekah lodges of the state. The eight years of its existence have been characterized by harmony and united work and the many sessions have been pleasant and profitable to the membership.

In the United States today there are 666,893 Rebekahs carrying on the good work of the order. In Indiana there are 62,693 members.

The 23rd Psalm.

Dr. Nichols took for his text last night the 23rd Psalm. Every one gave close attention. No one seemed to get sleepy. After an invitation to the unsaved to come to Christ a large number of testimonials were given, and the meeting closed in a spirit of good cheer. Mr. Powell, the singer, got lots of music out of the choir and the congregation as well. Come tonight and join our chorus. You will enjoy it.

We are looking for a large meeting tonight, Saturday night and Sunday. Come and help make them great.

The ladies will enjoy the meeting for ladies Sunday at 3 o'clock in the lecture room of the church when Mrs. Nichols will address them. Come hear her; she is fine.

RAILROAD MEN
MAY PLAY BALL

Plan on Foot to Organize Leagues All

Over The B. & O. S-W.

System.

THE SOUTHWESTERN LEAGUE

Seymour Would Belong To It.—The Organization of Some Teams

Has Begun.

Seymour may have a ball team made up of the railroad men. A movement it is said is on foot over the entire B. & O. system to organize base ball leagues on all divisions. It is the plan according to the promoters to have teams in all cities where shops or roundhouses are located and to have a regular schedule of Sunday games.

The organization on this division would be called the Southwestern League and if the plan to organize the teams is carried out the cities of Chillicothe, Newark, Cincinnati, Seymour, Washington, Flora and St. Louis will be members. The players would come from the motive power department and there are said to be some excellent players in the department in the different cities.

No steps have been taken to organize in Seymour yet but the matter will probably be taken up as the general plan is developed. The proposition meets with favor with the local railroad men who are ball fans and those who know of the plan favor it. A lot of the men here are great base ball enthusiasts and last season there was considerable playing by men who were off duty. There are some rattling good players here.

Over at Washington the men from the shops have taken up the plan and are preparing to organize the Washington team. Many of them are already in training in an effort to get on the team. A few years ago there was a very strong team at the shops and it defeated some of the very strongest semi-professional teams of the state. Some of the best players in Washington are said to work at the shops.

MEETING ARRANGED

By Men and Religion Forward Movement Committee.

Arrangements have been made by the Men Movement committee of Seymour, with Dr. Don W. Nichols to speak to them Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. His subject will be "A Manly Talk to Manly Men." Mr. Nichols has had a large experience with men, at home and abroad. He and his wife spent 17 years in China, going out first in 1887. He may tell a few things, by way of illustration, about that country. Men, come out and hear him Sunday at 3 o'clock.

TO ENFORCE RULING.

Traction Company to Prohibit Riding On Rear Platforms.

An order to enforce the ruling prohibiting passengers standing on the rear platforms of interurban cars has been issued by General Manager Alexander Shane, of the I. C. & S. Company.

"Statistics show," said Mr. Shane, "that a great majority of accidents on traction lines are caused by people riding on the rear platforms. As long as there is any room whatever in the car there is no excuse for passengers riding on the platform. We have formulated some rules to be placed in the rear vestibule and one of them provides against this part of the car being used by passengers. It is a passage way and should be maintained for that purpose alone. We expect the conductors to enforce these rules, but of course they will do so diplomatically. I do not expect a conductor to speak to a passenger as if he was talking to his wife."

The new rules which will soon be posted in rear vestibules of the cars will read:

"No smoking."

"Do not try to get on or off a moving car."

"Passengers are not allowed to stand in the vestibule when there is room inside the car."

"The company is not responsible for articles left on car."

"Packages must not be left in the vestibule."

Miss Erna Kastrup of Sauers has rented the Harlow property on South Chestnut street and will conduct a dress making establishment.

DECREASE EXPECTED

To Be Shown In Amount of Personal Property In Jackson Township.

Township Assessor Pomeroy and his deputies are pushing the work of assessing as rapidly as possible and the improved weather and roads are enabling the deputies to get over the country districts faster than they were able to do when the work began.

Though it is too early to make any estimate of what the total valuation of the personal property of the township will be, it is expected the total will fall below that of last year. This may affect the levy for next year. A number of things are responsible for the probable decrease. In the first place the rule in the state this year is to take notes and mortgages at 25 per cent. off of the face value which of course will cause a reduction. The farmers did not raise as much corn and other products as in some former years and this will make their assessment smaller.

Then the high cost of feedstuffs shoved down the valuation of horses and cattle and they are being assessed at a lower rate than last year.

Either dogs are becoming scarce or there are more failures to report them as it seems probable the assessors' reports will show a reduction in the number in Jackson township.

House Warning.

HER BOY AND YOURS.

Your boy? Your boy wears the badge of prosperity—good clothes. He has never known real hunger. When he needs a little money he comes to you and gets it. He has not missed a term of school since he began. He plays on Saturday. On Sunday, in an extra suit of clothes, he goes to Sunday school.

Her boy? He has little to show in the way of clothes and wears cheap kip shoes. Sometimes when he turns his wages to his mother she gives him a nickel. He quits school in the second grade. He earns by delivering papers a little more than your boy spends.

Her boy is at work when your boy turns over for a nap. He is due at the newspaper office at 4 a. m. Of a frosty morning he runs to get warm. If it rains he gets wet. When your boy would be kept in for a cold he coughs and keeps going.

Your boy has personal contact with good teachers and has his own little collection of books. He goes to the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium perhaps. He has all the refinements of a comfortable home.

Her boy? He runs up against all sorts of persons—good, morally unfit, vicious. He knows little of the finer things of life. He knows things only in the rough. Work is his physical exercise; play is a luxury.

Nevertheless it may be her boy will yet outrun yours. Who knows?

The very worldliness that is about him may give her boy's brain a mental keenness that your boy will lack. His hard experience may cause him to see things as they are. And something may cause the seeds of his ambition to sprout.

It depends on the yeast in him. If the yeast stuff that is in him is good quality let your boy look out for the washerwoman's boy!

On the other hand, it is pitiful to think that her boy may go down instead of up. The sordid things that are about him may overwhelm the good that is in him. He labors under a heavy handicap. The odds are against him. Your boy has a better chance than her boy—more's the pity.

But if her boy has real soul fiber he will overcome his handicap and in overcoming make a strong man of himself. He may go stumbling at first—but he will go!

In that case? Why, your boy must step aside for him and let him go past.

Saved by His Wife.

She's a wise woman who knows just what to do when her husband's life is in danger, but Mrs. R. J. Flint, Baintree, Vt., is of that kind. "She insisted on my using Dr. King's New Discovery," writes Mr. F. "for a dreadful cough, when I was so weak my friends thought I had only a short time to live, and it completely cured me." A quick cure for coughs and colds, it's the most safe and reliable medicine for many throat and lung troubles—grip, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, tonsillitis, hemorrhages. A trial will convince you. 50 cents and $1.00. Guaranteed by The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

Giving Ex-Convicts a Chance.

Members of the state board of pardons have been concerned for some time over the same problem that has bothered the prison association for convicts after they are released from the state penitentiary. Only a few days ago a young man who had made his "good time" and had obtained an extra commutation in his sentence by reason of good behavior and a desire to become a useful citizen and had settled down to an honest life with his mother in this city, was ordered to move just as soon as his landlord learned something about his history. He wasn't behind in his rent and ought to prove a good tenant, but the landlord wouldn't even consider giving him a fair chance.—Nebraska State Journal.

Saves Leg of Boy.

"It seemed that my 14-year old boy would have to lose his leg, on account of an ugly ulcer, caused by a bad bruise," wrote D. F. Howard, Aquone, N. C. ## TIME TO WAKE UP Trouble With Most Men Is That They Remain Blind to Their Opportunities.

GET INTO THE RIGHT PLACE

Idea That Some Have Overwhelming Preponderance of Mental Power Is a Fallacy—No Vast Difference Except With Diseased or Insane.

There are many young men who have no special trade, and only muscles and eight or ten hours to sell for their living. When off duty, or out of work, you may see these men in groups, talking small talk. And in those groups, at idle hours, the criminal recruiting officer moves.

Sometimes the social uplifter moves among these young men, too. Generally he does not get hold of them. Would you, Mr. Social Uplifter, like to do some uplifting that is worth while? Ask the laborer on your grounds to come into your library, and there tell him Abraham Lincoln's story. It is a startling fact that the young fellow never heard how Lincoln learned to read.

The tragedy of history, for centuries, was that men never discerned that they could be free. Then they began to awake, as Russia and now China are awakening.

It is tragic even now, our dense ignorance of the well-nigh equal mental power of all men, except the diseased and insane. It is the awakening alone that is needed. Rarely can a mind be awakened past 25 years of age. But up to that time, rare is the brain that cannot be startled into such activity as would result if you flung its owner into a new world. It would be as if you kicked him off this dull old planet, and he had landed on a star.

That is all that happened when the section hand got his jolt and went on and up to be president of the rail road.

The cruelest bondage of the world is this falsehood about a vast difference, in gift of the powers of mind, between men. You are as "smart" as your brother, the family's pride, if you will awake. You were born with a veil over your eyes. Snatch it away. See your opportunity.

By and by we shall acknowledge this fact of biology. We shall claim that men really are born free and equal. We shall justify the Declaration. Meanwhile questions of precedent and honors and earthly advantage, with all the social unrest, are of small account to you, boy. Your duty is to wake up. It is in you.

British Work Insurance.

A measure now before the British parliament proposes national insurance against unemployment and sickness. It is regarded as far more important than the old-age pension law, since it affects a greater number of people, and in most cases while they are still capable of work, although temporarily incapacitated.

The bill is divided into two parts. The first part is concerned solely with sickness and provides for insurance against loss of health and for the prevention and cure of sickness. The second part of the bill deals altogether with insurance against unemployment. Not only is provision made for compulsory insurance against loss of health, but voluntary insurance under certain conditions is also provided for.

The fund for compulsory insurance against loss of health will be contributed to in varying measure by the employer, the employee and the state.

Wood From Sawdust and Shavings. Cordwood made from sawdust and shavings is the outcome of an idea of a planing mill man in a western city. The material is compressed by steel plungers into dies. A pressure of thirty tons forces the particles to get into a solid mass. The machine turns out five tons of fuel a day, which sells readily at $9 a ton, returning an average net profit of $4.50 all of which was formerly thrown away.

GOVERNMENT AID

For Road Work. Measure to Be Given Support.

A Washington special says:

Thirty representatives, who have introduced government road building bills, met in a get-together conference and agreed to unite on a measure which Representative Dorsey Shackelford of Missouri framed and introduced. This bill provides government aid to any highway in the United States over which the rural route mail is carried.

It prescribes three classes of roads as follows:

Class A, shall embrace well-graded rural route roads not less than twenty-five feet wide between the ditches, well drained with a wagon way or road track not less than twelve feet wide, composed of bituminous macadam, not less than six inches thick, rolled, banded and maintained with a smooth, firm surface both shoulders and roadway properly constructed and continuously cared for.

Class B shall embrace roads twenty-five feet wide between the side ditches, well drained, with a wagon way or road track twelve feet wide, composed of burnt clay, shells, sand, clay or gravel, not less than eight inches thick, continuously kept well compacted, and with a firm smooth surface, with roadway well and properly crowned, so as to quickly shed water into the side ditches.

Class C shall embrace rural route roads, which shall be kept well graded, crowned and drained to a width of not less than eighteen feet, with split-log drag or other similar means, so as to be reasonably passable for wheeled vehicles at all times.

Wherever rural mail route roads are so built the bill provides that the government shall pay to the township, road district or community building such roads the sum of $30 a mile on Class A, $20 a mile on Class B and $10 a mile on Class C. An agricultural Department engineer shall be the judge of the completeness of the work and on his recommendation the money shall be paid as directed in the bill.

The members who agreed to combine their many ideas in this bill decided to ask each representative from each state to interest his colleagues in the bill and to urge the Committee on Agriculture to report it to the House for consideration. Representative Barnhart of Indiana is one of the good roads enthusiasts interested in the Shackelford bill, and in speaking on the measure he said:

"Here is a proposition that offers substantial encouragement to the improvement of a million miles of much traveled roads in the United States. It does not mean that the government will hire the work done, but instead, it means that, if the people along the rural mail route roads will make standard roads, the government will pay a part on the construction and annual maintenance of such good roads.

"It is the true principle of helping those who help themselves; it would give the work to the farmers and teamsters who will use the roads and are interested in having them right; it would give examples of right road-making for all other roads than those on which rural mail is carried, and it would provide government aid to better conveniences for farmers and road travelers generally.

"Of course, the bill does not provide the city-to-city or coast-to-coast automobile ways that pleasure seeking tourists have been asking for, but a man who is able to own an automobile is able to help build special automobile roads if they are needed and he ought to do it by paying into an automobile license fund for road purposes.

"The government pays for transporting mails over the railroads and why not pay something on the country roads over which its mail carriers travel every day? The government spends millions and millions for public buildings for cities and why not spend a little in helping the country people to have better roads? It is a wholesome democracy that assists in the greatest good to the greatest number and this plan of general aid to country road building would furnish more convenience, comfort and profit to more people than any like expenditure can afford. The farmers and country road travelers pay most of the government taxes and they should have all the benefits possible.

"The objection may be raised that this is not all the help the government should give to country roadmaking, but it is a start—an experiment that will develop a just and effective system—and this is the correct idea of accomplishing substantial public progress without wasting money in learning how."

The report of the official investigators of the assassination of the late Premier Stolypin of Russia confirms the opinion held in St. Petersburg, that the murder was engineered by the secret political police.

KEEPING AT WORK

Perseverance Will Bring Results if One Will Only Retain His Confidence.

SUCCESS FOLLOWS FAILURE

History Full of Instances of World Leaders Who Refused to Be Discouraged When Their First Efforts Did Not Meet Approval.

The romance centering about perseverance is the most fascinating in history; it is the statesman's brain, the warrior's sword, the lawyer's toga, the inventor's secret, the scholar's open sesame, the driving force which enables the human engine to reach the Grand Union Depot of Success.

Daniel Webster, the most eloquent defender and expounder of the American constitution, in his first effort at declamation in Exeter academy was a failure. Embarrassed, he burst into tears.

Rickard Brinsley Sheridan, one of England's foremost orators, in his maiden speech, hopelessly broke down, but muttered: "It's in me, and will come out." It did come out.

Disraeli, in his first attempt to speak in the house of commons, broke down, and when he was ignominiously hooted he shouted, "The day will come when you will hear me." The day came, and for 30 years he was one of the controlling powers in European politics.

Thiers, the great French statesman and orator, said: "I have been beaten, but not cast down," after making a complete failure of his first speech in the chamber of deputies. He declared, "a defeat is as useful as a victory."

Darwin spent 44 years collecting his facts on the action of the earth worm in the formation of the mold.

Carlyle went 20 times over the confused records of "The Battle of Naseby" to be quite sure as to the topography.

Gibbon rewrote the first chapter of "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" ten times and spent 20 years on the whole work.

George Eliot said of her work upon "Romola," "I began it a young woman, I finished it an old woman."

There is no royal road to success. Perseverance is the old and sure route. Howe lived on beans he cooked himself while completing his first sewing machine in London. He borrowed money to send his wife to America. He sold his first machine for five pounds and then pawned his letters patent to pay his expense home.

No man ever lost in the battle of life, until he lost faith in himself. Columbus, in his journey day after day, wrote: "This day we sailed westward, which was out of course." No matter what happened, he constantly steered for the west—through sunshine and shower, with leaky vessels and a mutinous crew, he stuck, until the glad cry of "Land ahead!" rang in his delighted ears.

Every great truth, every great man has had to fight the way to public recognition in the face of detraction, calumny and persecution, even against the opposition of the most progressive men. Heine says: "Everywhere that a great soul gives utterance to its thoughts there is also Golgotha."—Dr. Madison C. Peters.

Genius and Work.

When a man has risen from a humble to a lofty position in life, carved his name deep into the core of the world, or fallen upon some sudden discovery, with which his name is identified in all time coming, his rise, his work, his discovery is very often attributed to "accident." The fall of the apple is quoted as the accident by which Newton discovered the law of gravitation; and the convulsed frog's legs, first observed by Galvani, are in like manner quoted as an instance of accidental discovery. But nothing can be more unfounded.

Newton had been studying in retirement the laws of matter and motion, and his head was full and his brain beating with the toll of thinking on the subject, when the apple fell. The train was already laid long before, and the significance of the apple's fall was suddenly apprehended as only genius could apprehend it. So with Galvani, Jenner, Franklin, Watt, Davy and all other philosophers; they worked their way by steps, feeling for the right road, like the blind man, and always trying carefully the firmness of the new ground before venturing upon it.

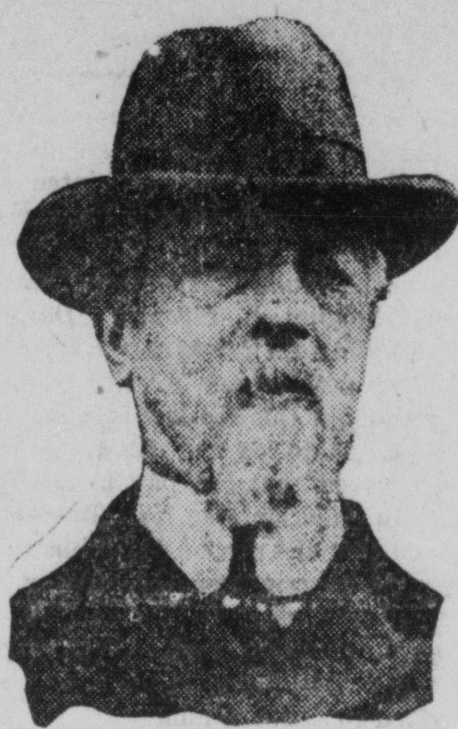

Genius of the very highest kind never trusts to accident, but is indefatigable in labor. Buffon has said of genius: "It is patience." Some one else has called it "Intense purpose;" and another, "hard work." Genius, however, turns to account all accidents; call them rather by their right names, opportunities. The history of successful men proves that it was the habit of cultivating opportunities—of taking advantage of opportunities—which helped them to success; which, indeed, secured success.

COMMITTEE SLOWLY IS GETTING TOGETHER

Miners and Operators Seeking a Basis of Amity.

Philadelphia, April 12.—At the opening conference between the four representatives of each faction held here, the controversy between the anthracite operators and miners was further clarified. The special committee discussed the points of difference and reported progress. No statements will be issued until its report is made to the full committee. The conferences will be continued for several days. It is the general feeling among the miners and also their employers that no strike will be called. At the conclusion of the initial meeting President White of the United Mine Workers was particularly happy. He smiled at the newspaper men, but declined to make any statement other than reporting favorable progress.

President George F. Baer, the spokesman of the operators, also was in a happy frame of mind. While Mr. Baer and his assistants were uncommunicative, it is known to be their belief that no strike will be called. From an unquestionable source it has been learned that the operators are willing to make some concessions, although they will come slowly. It is further believed by some of the miners that a 5 per cent increase will be offered and later the operators may go as high as 10 per cent as the limit of increase.

The one great rock upon which the conferences are liable to split is the matter of recognition of the union. The side of the operators is emphatic that no recognition will be granted, while the miners are just as insistent that no other agreement will be satisfactory to them.

ROME EXCITED

Report of Pope's Death Gained Wide Circulation.

Rome, April 12.—The city has been flooded with telegrams from all over the world asking about the report that the pope had died. The city itself was excited over the rumors, and the Vatican was bombarded with inquiries. The pope was astonished that such a report should gain credence and regretted the anxiety it had caused, but his holiness added jocularly: "False news of my death will prolong my life, so I ought not to be displeased."

TERSE TELEGRAMS

A dozen or more persons were badly injured when rioting broke out at the Mound City (W. Va.) coal mines.

Congressman George W. Rauch of the Eleventh Indiana district was renominated by acclamation in the Logansport convention.

The New York Democratic state convention was one of the shortest on record, and was as peaceful as a candy pull or a church fair.

It is reported in Constantinople that the Turks won a victory at Bengazi in which 100 Italians were killed and three lines of defense captured.

Owing to the delay in the arrival of some of the ballots the counting of the vote of the engineers on eastern railroads on the question of a strike to enforce their wage demands has not been completed.

When talk of a compromise candidate at Chicago was put up to Colonel Roosevelt it got a speedy and vigorous snuffing out. "Nobody must suggest any such word as 'compromise' to me," he snapped out.

It is said that an agreement has been reached between agents of the International Harvester company and the attorney general for the dissolution of that company without a suit under the Sherman law.

FACING A PROBLEM

Woman Worker Must Be Brought to Take Her Labor as a Serious Matter.

ROUTINE WORK NOT ENOUGH

In the Economic Field Every One Suffers by Almost Universal Inclination to Consider Employment as Mere Preliminary to Marriage.

What can be done to make the woman worker take herself seriously? In other words, how can women be brought to regard their work in the same spirit as men do, and not as a mere means of filling in the time between leaving school and going to the altar?

It is this almost general inclination of the feminine wage-earner to look upon her work as something temporary that presents one of the most serious problems in the whole of the economic field. Every one suffers by it.

Generally speaking, the employer of girls and young women would find his business slowly starving to death if he had to rely upon them for those illuminating ideas and originality that are the life and soul of commercial enterprise. Women in a business concern rarely bring anything into the common fund except a capacity for routine work. Once a typist always a typist, once a shopgirl always a shopgirl—always, that is, until marriage comes along, the change the woman worker is always expecting, the achievement she is more concerned about than any other success in life.

There is also the effect of this attitude upon the economic position of the women themselves to be considered. The majority of feminine wage-earners are content if they can earn sufficient money to keep their self-respect and to provide themselves with food and clothing and shelter during the problematical period of waiting for a husband to turn up.

They make no effort to improve their position. In many cases they regard it as a waste of time and endeavor to attempt to increase their wage-earning capacity. Sooner or later they will be carried off to the altar to begin a new existence—the life that really does matter.

Now, so long as women thing on these lines so long will they be satisfied with a low rate of wages. We may go even further, and say that so long also will they remain deserving of a low rate of wages, for they will only be capable of filling positions that need the minimum of initiative and ability.

It is easy to realize the evil effects this state of affairs has upon the economic position of men workers. Unscrupulous employers are tempted by the enormous competition existing for easy berths that demand little knowledge or ability to reduce wages to the lowest possible, trusting that the more skilled and earnest male will be forced into putting up with them in preference to starving, which, indeed, happens in most cases.

Now as to the future. Will woman mend her ways, or will she continue to create confusion and mistrust in the labor market? As far as one can determine, a change will probably come over her outlook. She will take herself seriously as a worker from the time when she commences her career in the world as a young girl. Whether she welcomes this solution to the problem or not, it is being slowly forced upon her.

The birthrate is the chief factor in the situation; with its present three women to two men standard, at least one woman out of every three must perform go husbandless. Nowadays, of course, it takes a lifetime to decide which shall be the one who is to be left to work undisturbed. Later on, perhaps, some process of natural selection will take upon itself the business of making this decision, and do so unerringly and at a time when woman is one the threshold of life.

Then, like the bees, we may achieve a race of woman workers quite distinct from their sisters dedicated to domesticity, a race who will establish for themselves a monopoly of all forms of labor for wages, and constitute, as it were, a third sex.—Exchange.

Faithful Workers Rewarded.

Since 1866 the Royal Saxon Ministry for Interior Affairs has conferred upon workmen for long and faithful service to the interests of their employers a silver medal on which is inscribed "Reward for Industry," and since 1875 a silver medal for "Faithful Work" has been given for thirty years' faithful service in the same place. In 1906 it was decided that instead of counting the time of service from the twenty-fifth birthday of the worker, it should be reckoned from the eighteenth birthday, and further that military service in the case of the male worker should not be deducted from the total service, provided he returned to his former place at the conclusion of his military service. The number of medals conferred in 1894 was about 200, in 1906 in was 1,635 and in 1910 the total number was 1,862, a consular report says.

DEATH CLAIMS GENERAL GRANT

Sudden Attack of Heart Disease Proves Fatal.

CAME WITHOUT PREMONITION

Retiring at 9 O'clock at His Hotel in New York, Apparently Better Than For Several Weeks, General Fred Dent Grant Was Dead at Midnight of Attack to Which He Succumbed Before Physicians Could Reach Him.

New York, April 12.—After retiring at 9 o'clock apparently in better condition than for several weeks, Major General Frederick Dent Grant died suddenly of heart failure, without premonition, at the Buckingham hotel at midnight last night. He had returned from his recent trip to Florida much improved and looking remarkably well and vigorous. His medical condition since his return had given no special anxiety to his physician, who had been with him during the afternoon and had congratulated him on his good health. He expressed himself as rejoiced at his renewed strength. General Grant had been suffering from diabetes and its attendant digestive disturbances, which seemed under perfect control. This sudden fatal termination came as a great surprise. His wife and nurse were with him at the time, and the physicians, who were called at once, found that the heart had stopped instantly. It is said that General Grant recently had been operated on for a cancerous growth at the base of the tongue.

General Grant was the eldest son of President Ulysses S. Grant, and was born at St. Louis, May 30, 1850. The family came from New England, where Matthew Grant settled at Windsor, Conn., in 1635. President Grant's grandfather moved to western Pennsylvania soon after the revolution. President Grant had four children, Frederick D., Ulysses S. jr., a lawyer of San Diego, Cal.; Jesse R., of New York, and Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris.

Frederick D. Grant was with his father in the latter part of the civil war, serving as voluntary aide and dispatch bearer to General Grant. As soon as he was old enough he was appointed to the military academy at West Point from New York and was graduated and commissioned a second lieutenant on June 12, 1871, being detailed to the Fourth United States cavalry. With this command he spent two years in Indian fighting on the frontier. He became first lieutenant on June 23, 1876, and meanwhile, in 1873, he had been appointed aide-de-camp to Lieutenant General Philip H. Sheridan, with the rank of lieutenant colonel. In his early western days he was employed also as engineer in the construction of the Union Pacific and Colorado Central railways. On June 1, 1881, Lieutenant Colonel Grant resigned from the service after spending the greater part of his time on the frontier.

After leaving the army Lieutenant Colonel Grant spent much of his time at the home of his mother in New York. He was constantly at his father's side during the illness which took General Grant's life, and after his father's death took charge of the family affairs. In 1885 President Harrison appointed him minister to Austria, and from 1894 to 1898 he was one of the police commissioners of New York. When the Spanish war began General Grant was appointed colonel of the Fourteenth New York Infantry, and later became brigadier general of volunteers. He served in the Porto Rican campaign and after the war commanded the military district of Porto Rico. On April 15, 1899, he was honorably discharged and on the same day was reappointed, with the same rank, and served from April to the following January as a brigade commander in the Philippines. Then he was brought back to take command of the department of Texas. In 1904 he was for several months in command of the department of the lakes, and then was for four years commander of the department of the east, returning again to that, his present, post as successor to General Leonard Wood.

General Grant was married on Oct. 20, 1874, to Ida M. Honore of Chicago. They have two children, Lieutenant Ulysses S. Grant third, now stationed in Washington, and the Princess Michael Cantacuzene-Speransky, who was Miss Julia Dent Grant. Mrs. Frederick D. Grant is a sister of Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago.

DIDN'T CARRY OUT THREATS TO BOLT

Kentucky Republicans Close Convention Harmoniously

Louisville, Ky., April 12.—The state Republican convention closed with the election of four delegates-at-large, alternates and the electors, without the threatened bolt on the part of the Roosevelt faction, and Mr. Taft will have twenty-three instructed votes in the national convention in Chicago, while one from the Fifth congressional district and two from the Eleventh will support the former president. The four delegates-at-large from Kentucky are:

United States Senator W. O. Bradley, Judge James G. Breathitt, Hopkinsville; W. D. Cochran, Maysville; J. Edward Wood, a negro preacher from Danville.

It was decided best by the Roosevelt men that a bolt would do no good, though Clayton B. Blakey, city attorney of Louisville, a Roosevelt leader, made a minority report regarding the report of the committee on credentials, and asked that the twenty-eight contested counties be added to the Roosevelt column. By a vote of 1,722 to 634 the minority report was defeated. The majority report of the committee, which gave seventeen counties to Taft and six to Roosevelt, was adopted by a vote of 1,872 to 484.

In his minority report Attorney Blakey charged the Taft people with importing voters from Ohio and West Virginia to participate in the county conventions and that the county convention officers, who were for Taft, allowed them to vote. Much feeling was shown during the reading of the report. He also declared the Taft men for not recognizing the Roosevelt supporters in the county conventions.

Originated in Madrid. Madrid, April 12.—The rumor that the pope was dead arose through a dispatch which an official of the papal nunciature received announcing the death of his father. The telegram read: "Papa morte." The telegraph officials interpreted this to mean: "The pope is dead." They informed Premier Canalejas, who informed the newspapers.

THE TAFT-TEDDY FEUD RAGES

When Convention Assembled at Bay City There Were Two Well Defined Organizations Contending For Domination and Amid Scenes of Wildest Disorder Both Succeeded in Staying to the Limit of the Proceedings.

Bay City, Mich., April 12.—Practically the whole of yesterday's session of the Republican state convention was so fraught with wild noises that not any person in the hall could do more than guess what transpired without asking the convention directors. Taft and Roosevelt men rushed at each other with livid faces and a free for all fight was only prevented by the presence of the militia and police.

Out of the pandemonium was made national history. Two complete delegations to the national convention, one for Roosevelt, the other for Taft, were chosen. Two conventions strove for possession of the same hall, and both succeeded in staying to the limit of the proceedings it had mapped out. Judging from the usually accepted criterion, which convention is vouched for by the chairman of the party organization, the Roosevelt convention seems to have been the regular and the Taft convention the rump. The situation is complicated, however, by the fact that while State Chairman Knox and ten members of the state central committee contended from the Roosevelt side, a majority of that committee, numbering seventeen, were sponsors at the Taft meeting.

The big fight of the convention was to get Wayne's delegation into the hall. The Taft men had the sergeant-at-arms, and he finally prevailed. Every Roosevelt man from Wayne was barred out. Only Taft men were admitted. There was no test of votes in the convention. Roosevelt men claimed to have about 800 delegates with the Roosevelt delegation from Wayne. The Taft people claimed 850, also counting their men from Wayne. With the Roosevelt men from Wayne barred out of the hall, the Taft men easily must have controlled.

State Chairman Knox presided in the opening Roosevelt meeting. He called for the election of a temporary chairman and Speaker Herbert F. Baker of the house of representatives was elected by the Roosevelt delegates, the Taft men meanwhile giving their attention to the Taft convention at the other side of the hall. Mr. Baker proceeded to recognize various of the Roosevelt leaders, each with a prepared motion, and the Roosevelt convention proceeded to the election of committees and the framing of reports. Then it went ahead with the election of six delegates to the Chicago convention.

Amid a scene of wild disorder created when the state convention opened, W. D. Gordon of Midland, a Roosevelt delegate, was thrown headlong off the platform by Jack F. Cremer of Marquette, Taft worker, when he leaped to the stage and attempted to address the convention. Gordon tumbled over the speaker's table and landed on his head on the floor, overturning a dozen busily writing newspaper men. A dozen of his friends jumped to the stage and pulled Cremer to the floor, but he was immediately surrounded by a number of his friends, who kept Gordon from being beaten him. Policemen and militiamen at the front of the hall and forced back more than a hundred men who were clamoring to engage in the fight. Shouting, cursing, pushing and rushing back and forth, the delegates put the convention in a turmoil and all attempts to quiet them seemed useless. Policemen brandishing their clubs filled the stage. Chairman Knox tried in vain to make his voice heard above the chaos. Former Senator Beveridge was on the platform when the fracas broke out. He was swept from his seat and two husky policemen stood guard over him until the row was over. Mayor George Ellis of Grand Rapids, who refused to show his credentials at the inner door, was thrown bodily out on the street.

When the Wayne county Taft delegation attempted to enter the convention hall, they were met by a squad of national guardsmen, who refused to allow them to enter.

London, April 12.—Premier Asquith presented the third home rule bill to the house of commons in a plain, businesslike manner and without any attempt at oratorical flourish or dramatic effect. While the occasion was regarded as historic, like Mr. Gladstone's two previous appearances, the same purpose, the premier straightforward, direct way and the absence of striking sentences did much to rob the scene of the significance which necessarily attached to it. The disposition of the auditors of the house was to compare the scene with the other momentous occasion the first in 1886 and the other in 1891 when Mr. Gladstone presented his home rule measures. The contrast was all the more marked from the fact that Mr. Asquith's address was very brief, occupying less than two hours while Mr. Gladstone spoke for a better part of a sitting of the house both times.

The prime minister showed that he intended merely to sketch the provisions of the measure. The premier's statements that Ulster, which has been loudest in denunciations of home rule, had only seventeen members in parliament against seventy-six Irish Nationalists, brought loud shouts from the Redmond contingent. There was more cheering when he declared that he was convinced that home rule for Ireland was merely the first step in a large and more comprehensive policy by which he meant home rule for the other divisions of the kingdom.

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES

For Information of Civil Service Commission State Board of Accounts Has Compiled Statement Showing That Nearly 2 Per Cent of Total Population of State Is Engaged in One Form or Another of Public Service.

Indianapolis, April 12.—According to figures transmitted by Governor Marshall to the United States civil service commission, nearly 2 per cent of the total population of the state is on the public payroll. The figures were compiled by the state board of accounts at the request of the governor, on receipt of a request for the information from the commission headquarters in Washington.

The figures showed 50,686 persons in the state in public office, either as officials of employees. With the exception of some of the town councilmen and school trustees, all are paid. Some of the paid officials, too, draw merely nominal salaries. The total is distributed as follows: In the state government, 5,694; in county governments, 9,867; in township governments, 5,445; in the public schools, as superintendents, teachers or employees, 17,305; in city or town governments, 12,375. The figures also showed 640,141 men in the state subject to call for military service.

The report set out in detail the following concerning persons employed, the various phases of state, county, township, school and municipal governments:

State Offices and Courts—Officers, 94; employees, 355; circuit court judges, 63; prosecuting attorneys, 63; superior court judges, 16. Total, 591. Charitable and correctional institutions, 1,937.

Irish Home Rule Bill Again Before Parliament.

London, April 12.—Premier Asquith presented the third home rule bill to the house of commons in a plain, businesslike manner and without any attempt at oratorical flourish or dramatic effect. While the occasion was regarded as historic, like Mr. Gladstone's two previous appearances, the same purpose, the premier straightforward, direct way and the absence of striking sentences did much to rob the scene of the significance which necessarily attached to it. The disposition of the auditors of the house was to compare the scene with the other momentous occasion the first in 1886 and the other in 1891 when Mr. Gladstone presented his home rule measures. The contrast was all the more marked from the fact that Mr. Asquith's address was very brief, occupying less than two hours while Mr. Gladstone spoke for a better part of a sitting of the house both times.

The prime minister showed that he intended merely to sketch the provisions of the measure. The premier's statements that Ulster, which has been loudest in denunciations of home rule, had only seventeen members in parliament against seventy-six Irish Nationalists, brought loud shouts from the Redmond contingent. There was more cheering when he declared that he was convinced that home rule for Ireland was merely the first step in a large and more comprehensive policy by which he meant home rule for the other divisions of the kingdom.

Teddy's Travels. New York, April 12.—Colonel Roosevelt got back to New York late yesterday afternoon, but was off again this afternoon for a two days' jaunt to Massachusetts and New Hampshire, returning Sunday. Tonight he speaks at Springfield, Mass., and tomorrow goes campaigning through New Hampshire.

NOT ENCOURAGING.

For several months there has been talk that owing to the deplorable condition in which the present administration and the last legislature or two have plunged the state finances that the state tax levy would probably have to be raised next year.

Heavy increase in the cost of operating the state government and institutions and in general expenditures have caused conditions which are growing worse and without hope for betterment. The threat was made last year that unless there was a big increase in the valuation of real estate the increased levy could hardly be avoided. In many sections the real estate valuations were increased. The heavy increases made in Seymour will be distinctly recalled by the many property owners who rebelled.

With heavier advance calls in the counties for taxes being made regularly each quarter a new cause for alarm is presented which makes the increased levy still more of a certainty. In Jackson township and over the county and in many sections of the state according to newspaper reports there is the prospect of decreased personal property valuations. The rule of taking notes and mortgages at less than the face value will operate throughout the state causing a decrease in property valuation. Then in many sections as in this locality, the shortage of corn and some other crops and the necessity of assessing stock at lower valuations will largely decrease the total of the property upon which the tax levy is raised. If the state requires so much money and the total property to be collected on is lower the state levy necessarily would be raised even if the financial conditions of the state government were as good as formerly.

In Seymour last year the increase in real estate valuations enabled the city to make a slight cut in the local levy but it did not decrease the amount the property owners have to pay as their property was valued higher. Furthermore as there was no cut in the state levy the taxes were made higher by the increased valuation. Now if a higher state levy is to come the burden will be still heavier.

The taxpayers of the city and county ought to be interested in the enumeration of children of school age which is now being taken. Every name of a person between the ages of 6 and 21 which goes on the list means that much more money for the corporation in the distribution of the state tuition fund. Every name omitted means a loss of about $4.50 for the school corporation. Every year the enumerators find some persons laboring under the delusion that if the names of their children are given in it will in some way mean heavier taxes for them. The enumeration simply gives a basis for the distribution of the state tuition fund. If all of the children of Jackson township simply fails to get its full share of the fund. Some sections where property valuations are large do not have enough children to bring back in the distribution all of the money paid in while other sections receive more than they pay in. The desire to get as heavy as possible a share in the distribution has a number of times led to the padding of the enumeration in some cities and a consequent scandal. Padding is not advocated for Seymour of course but it is to be hoped that no persons will fail to give in all their children and to help the enumerator to secure a full count.

City Treasurer Burkart was double crossed and beaten for Democratic county chairman but as he was honored with appointment as a registration inspector he will be expected to be satisfied and be good. Bert Kastling lost the nomination for sheriff and he also is handed a job as inspector as a pacifier and will also be allowed to do a lot of work as treasurer of the committee. This registration law is an expensive luxury for the taxpayers but think how many opportunities it affords for jolly up the disappointed at the public expense.

The small morsel thrown Seymour Democrats this week in the shape of the nomination for surveyor is held by Brownstown and other outside Democratic leaders ought to put a stop to the grumbling here. Jackson township only furnishes about one third of the Democratic votes of the county and of course ought not to ask for anything more than the crumbs from the pie counter.

Hear Other Side.

Pending the vote which W. S. Stone, Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers stated that the engineers are taking, the railroad companies are submitting a pamphlet to engineers, foremen, conductors, trainmen and all employees concerned in any way with the operation of trains, in order that the men may have before them all the facts in the matter. The pamphlet sets forth the demands made by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the reply by the Conference Committee of General Managers, and embodied in the pamphlet are a number of newspaper editorials reflecting the views and interest of the public in the controversy between the railroads and their employees.

The pamphlet being distributed by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad contains in full the proposal made by the locomotive engineers on March 14th and the response of the Conference Committee of General Managers and signed by J. C. Stuart, chairman, under date of March 25th, in which the railroads explain their inability to meet the recurring demands for increased wages. Attention is called to the fact that the reduction of net revenues by the constantly increasing expenses of operation have so narrowed the margin essential to the solvent existence of many of the roads that further increases in operating costs are viewed with grave concern. The statement shows gross earnings in the year 1911 to have been increased $18,559,659 whereas expenses increased $46,209,859 making a decrease in net earnings of $27,650,200. It is shown that of this increase in expenses wages of employees were increased $39,416,802 notwithstanding the fact that there were 8,197 less men employed.

The gist of the answer of the railroads to the men was that the present rate of the wages are, as a rule, fair and liberal and that the railroads are financially unable to bear the increased expenses involved.

OSLER RIGHT: YOUTH SUCCEEDS AGE

Gray Hair Is First Sign of Age.
Harmless Remedy Restores to Natural Color.

Osler isn't the only man who turns down old age. In the business world the "young man" is always the one who picks the plums. It is an age of "new thought," "new talent," etc., and the old man is passed by in the race.

One of the first signs of coming age is the appearance of gray hairs. When you see them, act promptly. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will correct this sign, which so often deceives people into thinking that age is really upon them. It is a well-known fact that Sage and Sulphur will darken the hair. These old-time remedies with other agents, which remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize the druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

Don't look old before your time. Get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-day, and see what an improvement it will make in the appearance of your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Special Agents, Andrews Drug Co.

EASY AND SURE WAY TO CURE COLDS

Don't Neglect a Cold, Stop it in the Sneezing Stage.
Use Ely's Cream Balm.

A cold generally attacks the weakest part, affecting the eyes and ears in some and producing nasal catarrh and throat troubles in others. A cold is due to an inflammation of the membrane lining the air passages, and may be promptly cured with a little Ely's Cream Balm, which immediately relieves the inflammation and all the distressing symptoms, such as sneezing, coughing, running at the nose and eyes, hoarseness, sore throat, fever and headache. One reason why this pure, astringent Balm acts so quickly is because it is applied directly to the tender, sore surfaces.

Even in severe, chronic cases of catarrh, Ely's Cream Balm never fails to quickly and effectually check the poisonous discharge which clogs the head and throat, causing the disgusting hawking, spitting and blowing of the nose. This remedy not only drives out the rottenness, but heals and strengthens the weakened and diseased membranes, thus ending catarrh for all time.

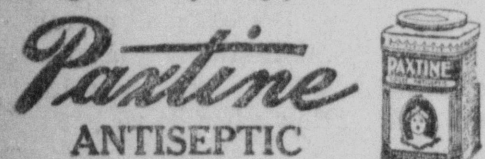

Catarrh is a filthy, disgusting disease. Don't put up with it another day. Get a 50 cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist to-day.

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 31 women free on request.

THE QUIET HOUR

Basis of Worldly Happiness in Right Mind and Heart

By REV. E. P. MARVIN

A PROFESSOR in Princeton Theological seminary astonished us by saying that "nineteenth of the happiness or misery of home life depends on temper."

Good temper is a sweet, kindly and benevolent disposition of mind and heart. It inclines us to be satisfied and pleased with the treatment we receive in the relative duties of life. It is an eminent and a comprehensive Christian grace.

"Be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."

What are we to think of those who always "live in the worst place in the world?" We can find friends anywhere if we show ourselves friendly. A bee sucks honey where spiders suck poison. Do not be irritable and do not irritate others. Avoid the weak and sore spot in your neighbors and imitate the mignonette rather than the nettle.

Seek Only the Truth.

Open your eyes to the truth, the beautiful and the good around you, and see if you cannot be sweet. If you carry a shoulder-bag with the faults of others in front and your own behind, just turn it around. Forget self in your absorbing appreciation of others and your devotion to their welfare. Imitate him who "came not to be ministered unto, but to minister."

"Peace and good will toward men" will make us unwilling to believe evil reports or to circulate them. Madam Rumor is a liar and we should be slow to believe her reports, which are false or distorted. Her stories grow marvelously. We should be very credulous of good reports and incredulous of evil reports, especially concerning good people.

"Trifles light as air" are to the scandal-monger "confirmations strong as proofs of Holy Writ." Some one says, "For embittering life, for breaking up communities, for destroying the most sacred relationships, for devastating homes, for withering up men and women, for taking the bloom of childhood, in short, for sheer gratuitous misery-producing power, this influence stands alone." Life and death are in the power of an ill-tempered and uncontrolled tongue. It "outvenoms all the worms of Nile." More fall by the tongue than by the sword. Is it not well to follow the example of medical doctors—examine the tongue?

Read the scathing satire of St. James on the tongue, chapter 1: 1-10. "Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth." A friction tongue, like a friction match, may set a city on fire. "The hand that kindles cannot quench the flame." "But I take it all back." You cannot take it all back. The assassin takes his dagger back from the heart, but not its deadly work.

All of us have suffered enough to appreciate this. "A lie will travel from coast to coast while truth is putting on its boots. Whosoever circulates scandal should be held responsible, like those who circulate base coin. Do not let any one make your ear a sewer for scandal. A dog that brings a bone will carry a bone.

Forgetfulness for Wrongs.
Be radical concerning right and wrong, but be wise and amiable. Be open for explanations that may palliate evil. A mistake is not a lie, and eccentricity is not sin. Cultivate the grace of forgetfulness for all wrongs and remembrance for all kindness, and so make memory a fount of joy and not of tears. Suppose some one does not like you very well, probably you like yourself too well. Take care of your character, and let God take care of your reputation. Live the lie down.

A man basely slandered showed such good nature and even joy, that he had to explain himself by saying, "I am so glad it is not true!" Learn from an enemy what your faults are. Do not chase scandal. If you try to talk it down or retaliate, you may be like the bird that rushes to put out the fire kindled by the hunter for a snare, and only fans it to consume her.

Return good for evil and you get more than "even." If the report is true, confess it, and forsake the sin. If false, pray to be kept from it. If influential, expect criticism. Only characterless people escape censure. Birds peck at the fairest fruit. The best apple tree on my way to school in childhood was all but clubbed to death. The word of the Gospel is upon you if all men speak well of you; and benediction if you are reviled and persecuted. Always forgive, never retaliate, and never ask an apology. Do not ask what people say about you. Respect God's judgment first, that of conscience next, and of the world last. Do not stumble at a straw and forsake your church and your God.

Let the benefits you receive be engraved on marble tablets, never to be effaced. Let injuries only be written in sand, to be washed out by the first wave of passing time. "Be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."

CHAPTER VIII.

A Mixed Pickle.

Mrs. Whitcomb had almost blushed when she had murmured to Lieutenant Hudson:

"I should think the young couple would have preferred a stateroom."

And Mr. Hudson had flinched a little as he explained:

"Yes, of course. We tried to get it, but it was gone."

It was during the excitement over the decoration of the bridal section, that the stateroom-tenants slipped in unobserved.

First came a fluttering woman whose youthful beauty had a certain hue of experience, saddening and wiser. The porter brought her in from the station-platform, led her to the stateroom's concave door and passed in with her luggage. But she lingered without, a Peri at the gate of Paradise. When the porter returned to bow her in, she shivered and hesitated, and then demanded:

"Oh, porter, are you sure there's nobody else in there?"

The porter chuckled, but humored her panic.

"I ain't seen nobody. Shall I look under the seat?"

To his dismay, she nodded her head violently. He rolled his eyes in wonderment, but returned to the stateroom, made a pretense of examination, and came back with a face full of reassurance. "No'm, they's nobody there. Take a mighty small-size burglar to squeeze undat that bald—er—berth. No'm, nobody there."

"Oh!"

The gasp was so equivocal that he made bold to ask:

"Is you pleased or disappointed?"

The mysterious young woman was too much agitated to rebuke the impudence. She merely sighed: "Oh, porter, I'm so anxious."

"I'm not—now," he muttered, for she handed him a coin.

"Porter, have you seen anybody on board that looks suspicious?"

"Evvabody looks suspicious to me, Missy. But what was you expecting—special?"

"Oh, porter, have you seen anybody that looks like a detective in disguise?"

"Well, they's one man looks 's if he was disguised as a balloon, but I don't believe he's no sloop-head."

"Well, if you see anybody that looks like a detective and he asks for Mrs. Fosdick—"

"Mrs. What-dick?"

"Mrs. Fosdick! You tell him I'm not on board." And she gave him another coin.

"Yassum," said the porter, lingering willingly on such fertile soil. "I'll tell him Mrs. Fosdick done give me her word she wasn't on board."

"Yes!—and if a woman should ask you."

"What kind of a woman?"

"The hideous kind that men call handsome."

"Oh, ain't they hideous, them handsome women?"

"Well, if such a woman asks for Mrs. Fosdick—she's my husband's first wife—but of course that doesn't interest you."

"No'm—yes'm."

"If she comes—tell her—tell her—oh, what shall we tell her?"

The porter rubbed his thick skull: "Lemme see—we might say you—I tell you what we'll tell her: we'll tell her you took the train for New York; and if she runs mighty fast she can just about catch it."

"Fine, fine!" And she rewarded his genius with another coin. "And, porter, if a very handsome man with luscious eyes and a soulful smile asks for me—"

"I'll throw him off the train!"

"Oh, no—no!—that's my husband—my present husband. You may let him in. Now is it all perfectly clear, porter?"

"Oh, yassum, clear as clear." Thus guaranteed she entered the stateroom, leaving the porter alone with his problem. He tried to work it out in a semi-audible mumble: "Lemme see! If your present husband's absent wife gets on board disguised as a handsome hideous woman I'm to throw him—her—off the train and let her—him—come in—oh, yassum, you may rely on me."

He bowed and held out his hand. But she was gone. He shuffled on into the car.

He had hardly left the little space before the stateroom when a handsome man with luscious eyes, but without any smile at all, came slinking along the corridor and tapped cautiously on the door. Silence alone answered him at first, then when he had rapped again, he heard a muffled:

"Go away. I'm not in."

He put his lips close and softly called: "Edith!"

At this Sesame the door opened a trifle, but when he tried to enter, a hand thrust him back and a voice again warned him off. "You musn't

"But I'm your husband."
"That's just why you musn't come in." The door opened a little wider to give him a view of a down-cast beauty meaning:

"Oh, Arthur, I'm so afraid."

"Afraid?" he sniffed. "With your husband here?"

"That's the trouble, Arthur. What if your former wife should find us together?"

"But she and I are divorced."

"In some states, yes—but other states don't acknowledge the divorce. That former wife of yours is a fiend to pursue us this way."

"She's no worse than your former husband. He's pursuing us, too. My divorce was as good as yours, my dear."

"Yes, and no better."

The angels looking on might have judged from the ready tempers of the newly married and not entirely unmarried twain that their new alliance promised to be as exciting as their previous estates. Perhaps the man subtly felt the presence of those eternal eavesdroppers, for he tried to end the love-duel in the corridor with an appealing caress and a tender appeal: "But let's not start our honeymoon with a quarrel."

His partial wife returned the caress and tried to explain: "I'm not quarreling with you, dear heart, but with the horrid divorce laws. Why, oh, why did we ever interfere with them?"

He made a brave effort with: "We ended two unhappy marriages, Edith, to make one happy one."

"But I'm so unhappy, Arthur, and so afraid!"

He seemed a trifle afraid himself and his gaze was askance as he urged: "But the train will start soon, Edith—and then we shall be safe."

Mrs. Fosdick had a genius for inventing unpleasant possibilities. "But what if your former wife or my former husband should have a detective on board?"

"A detective?—poof!" He snapped his fingers in bravado. "You are with your husband, aren't you?"

"In Illinois, yes," she admitted, very dolefully. "But when we come to Iowa, I'm a bigamist, and when we come to Nebraska, you're a bigamist, and when we come to Wyoming, we're not married at all."

It was certainly a tangled web they had woven, but a ray of light shot through it into his bewildered soul. "But we're all right in Utah. Come, dearest."

He took her by the elbow to escort her into their sanctuary, but still she hung back.

"On one condition, Arthur—that you leave me as soon as we cross the Iowa state line, and not come back till we get to Utah. Remember, the Iowa state line!"

"Oh, all right," he smiled. And seeing the porter, beckoned him close and asked with careless indifference: "Oh, porter, what time do we reach the Iowa state line?"

"Two fifty-five in the mawning, sah."

"Two fifty-five a. m.?" the wretch exclaimed.

"Two fifty-five a. m., yassah," the porter repeated, and wondered why this excerpt from the time-table should exert such a dramatic effect on the luscious-eyed Fosdick.

He had small time to meditate the puzzle, for the train was about to be launched upon its long voyage. He went out to the platform, and watched a couple making that way. As their only luggage was a dog-basket he supposed that they were simply come to bid some of his passengers good-bye. No tips were to be expected from such transients, so he allowed them to help themselves up the steps.

Mallory and his Marjorie had tried to kiss the farewell or farewells half a dozen times, but she could not let him go at the gate. She asked the guard to let her through, and her beauty was bribe enough.

Again and again, she and Mallory paused. He wanted to take her back to the taxicab, but she would not be so dismissed. She must spend the last available second with him.

"I'll go as far as the steps of the car," she said. When they were arrived there, two porters, a sleeping car conductor and several smoking saunterers profaned the trust. So she whispered that she would come aboard, for the corridor would be a quiet lane for the last rites.

And now that he had her actually on the train, Mallory's whole soul revolted against letting her go. The vision of her standing on the platform sad-eyed and lorn, while the train swept him off into space was unendurable. He shut his eyes against it, but it glowed inside the lids.

And then temptation whispered his old "Why not?" While it was working in his soul like a fermenting yeast, he was saying:

"To think that we should owe all our misfortune to an infernal taxicab's break-down."

Out of the anguish or her loneliness crept one little complaint:

"If you had really wanted me, you'd have had two taxicabs."

"Oh, how can you say that? I had the license bought and the minister waiting."

"He's waiting yet."

"And the ring—there's the ring." He fished it out of his waistcoat pocket and held it before her as a golden amulet.

"A lot of good it does now," said Marjorie. "You won't even wait over till the next train."

"I've told you a thousand times, my love," he protested, desperately, "if I don't catch the transport, I'll be court-martialed. If this train is late, I'm lost. If you really loved me you'd come along with me."

Her very eyes gasped at this astounding proposal.

"Why, Harry Mallory, you know it's impossible."

Like a sort of benevolent Satan, he laid the ground for his abduction: "You'll leave me, then, to spend three years without you—out among those Manila women."

She shook her head in terror at this vision. "It would be too horrible for words to have you marry one of those mahogany sirens."

He held out the apple. "Better come along, then."

"But how can I? We're not married."

He answered airily: "Oh, I'm sure there's a minister on board."

"But it would be too awful to be married with all the passengers gawking. No, I couldn't face it. Good-bye, honey."

She turned away, but he caught her arm: "Don't you love me?"

"To distraction. I'll wait for you, too."

"Three years is a long wait."

"But I'll wait, if you will."

With such devotion he could not tamper. It was too beautiful to risk or endanger or besmirch with any danger of scandal. He gave up his fantastic project and gathered her into his arms, crowded her into his very soul, as he vowed: "I'll wait for you forever and ever and ever."

Her arms swept around his neck, and she gave herself up as an exile from happiness, a prisoner of a far-off love:

"Good-bye, my husband-to-be."

"Good-bye my wife-that-was-to-have-been-and-will-be-maybe."

"Good-bye."

"Good-bye."

"Good-bye."

"Good-bye."

"I must go."

"Yes, you must."

"One last kiss."

"One more—one long last kiss."

And there, entwined in each other's arms, with lips wedded and eyelids clinched, they clung together, forgetting everything past, future or present. Love's anguish made them blind, mute and deaf.

They did not hear the conductor crying his "All Aboard!" down the long wall of the train. They did not hear the far-off knell of the bell. They did not hear the porters banging the vestibules shut. They did not feel the floor sliding out with them.

And so the porter found them, engulfed in one embrace, swaying and swaying, and no more aware of the increasing rush of the train than were other passengers on the earth-express are aware of its speed through the ether-routes on its ancient schedule.

The porter stood with his box-step in his hand, and blinked and wondered. And they did not even know that they were observed.

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson II. April 14.

USE OF THE SABBATH. Mark 2:23 to 3:6.

GOLDEN TEXT:—The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath.—Mark 2:27.

The record of today's lesson, two Sabbath day incidents, the disciples plucking corn and a withered hand restored in the synagogue, is found in Matt. xii and Luke vi, as well as in Mark, so that it must concern Him not only as the Jewish King rejected, but also as the perfect servant, and as the Son of Man, to whom all things will yet be subdued. To understand Him and His words and works we must consider Him as Nathaniel spoke of Him, "the Son of God, the King of Israel" (John i. 49), as "the King of the Jews" whom the wise men sought (Matt. ii. 2), and as the "Wonderful, Counselor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace, who will yet sit upon the throne of David and whose kingdom shall know no end" (Isa. ix. 6, 7; Luke i. 32, 33). The late Dr. Weston in his "Genesis of the New Testament" says that the Jewish Sabbath was the one peculiar and distinctive ordinance of the nation. Other nations practiced circumcision and had temples, offered sacrifices and performed religious rites, but the Sabbath was the Jewish national flag. In it they claimed a peculiar relation to God as their Creator, Redeemer and Rest, and, if by this man's treatment of their Sabbath they are to be deprived of their distinction from other nations, what is the use of being God's people? Considering this, it is not so surprising that the immediate occasion of the determination by the Jewish rulers to put Christ to death, as stated in all the gospels, was His relation to the Sabbath. He claimed to be greater than Solomon or the temple or the Sabbath (Matt. xii. 6, 8, 42), but they would not so receive Him. They honored Him with their lips, but their heart was far from Him (Isa. xxix. 13; Ezek. xxxiii. 31; Matt. xv. 7, 8). They had a form of worship without any power. Jehovah, whom they professed to worship, was in their midst, and they knew Him not.

Matthew says that as the disciples passed through the cornfields they were hungry, and Luke says that they rubbed the ears of corn in their hands and did eat. Our Lord Himself was as hungry on other occasions, as recorded in Matt. iv. 2; xxi. 18. Concerning Israel it is written that He suffered them to hunger (Deut. viii. 3), but it was to prove them and teach them. The wicked are ever watching the righteous and seeking to slay them (Ps. xxxvii. 32), and here they are finding fault and condemning the disciples, and the Lord, too, because they knew Him not, nor the Scriptures, which they professed to reverence. He referred them to their own Scriptures, saying, "Have ye never read what David did when he had need and was an hungered? (Verse 25.) There is no word of condemnation here for David and his followers. He came not to condemn, but to show mercy, hence His quotation from the prophets in Matthew's record, "I will have mercy and not sacrifice" (Matt. xii. 7; Hos. vi. 6). The rest of the verse in Hosea says that the knowledge of God is better than burnt offering. The primary idea in sacrifice is that God gives to us, not that we give to Him, for in the first sacrifice the Lord gave to Adam and Eve redemption clothing which He Himself provided, a foreshadowing of Christ loving the church and giving Himself for it, purchasing it with His own blood. We cannot give anything to God nor offer Him acceptable service until we have received mercy from Him as the One who saves sinners. Before ever sin entered this world God set apart one day in seven as a time when man might be free from all work and give himself up wholly to becoming acquainted with God, for there is nothing that can compare with knowing God (Jer. ix. 23, 24). The Lord of the Sabbath gave to man in His own image a day on which He might specially bless him by the revelation of Himself as the source of all being and blessing and life and love and peace. The man in the synagogue with the withered hand was strongly suggestive of the condition of the nation and of their inability to do anything for God until they would accept His mercy. In the record, in Matt. xii. 11, 12, He uses the illustration of the necessity of rescuing a sheep from a pit, even on the Sabbath day, but He speaks of the owner of the sheep doing this, saying, "What man shall have one sheep," not see a sheep. He loved these wayward sheep. He came to give them life. He was as ready to heal them as He was to restore that withered hand, but they would not let Him, and the hardness (or blindness—margin) of their hearts was a grief to Him. Note the cry from His heart concerning them, "We would not," "We will not." "If thou hadst known" (Matt. xxiii. 37; xxi. 3; John v. 40; Luke xix. 41, 42). Instead of having anything like a penitent spirit, a conviction of sin, their proud hearts so rebelled against Him and His teaching that they went away and took counsel how they might kill Him. For His love they gave Him hatred, they knew Him not, they would not have such a one as their Messiah, but the time will come when they shall say, "Our God"

THE LESSON QUIZ.

[Copyright, 1911, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.]

The Use of the Sabbath. Mark ii:23; iii:6.

Golden Text—The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath. Mark ii:27.

(1.) Verses 23-24—What are the Old Testament laws for keeping the Sabbath day? Ex. xxiii:12; xxxi:14-17; Deut. v:14.

(2.) What is the origin of the Sabbath day, and what was its original purpose? Gen. ii:2-3; Deut. xxxiv:21.

(3.) Was it true or not, and why, that Jesus did break the letter of the Sabbath law?

(4.) Verses 25-26—Did Jesus have the right to change or modify the Sabbath law or any other law? Give your reason.

(5.) With the exception of natural law, are there ever cases when it is necessary to break the letter of the law in order to keep its spirit? Give your reason.

(6.) What are the facts concerning this reference to David? See Ex. xxix:32-33; 1 Sam. xxi:6.

(7.) How do you reconcile the inference from the words of Jesus that David did right in eating the shew bread, notwithstanding it was an unlawful act? See Lev. xxiv:5-9.

(8.) If David and Jesus had the right to suspend Scriptural laws when the circumstances seemed to them to justify it, what are our rights under similar circumstances?

(9.) Verses 27-28—Jesus here states in substance that the Sabbath law must bend to man's real welfare. Why would he, or not, have said the same thing about every other law?

(10.) Does God give to every holy man the same right as Jesus had over the Sabbath law and presumably every other law? Why or why not?

(11.) Verses 1-2—What was the reason that the Pharisees hated Jesus and sought how they might destroy him?

(12.) Verses 3-4—How may we decide with certainty as to what we should or should not do on the Sabbath day? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(13.) Would you, for example, say that the engineer of the through express on the Sabbath day may please God at his work just as much as the minister in the pulpit? Why?

(14.) Why did they not answer Jesus' question?

(15.) A poor boy came to church on a cold Sunday with no buttons on his coat. A good sister took him into the vestry and sewed buttons on. Did she do right or not, and why?

(16.) Verses 5-6—When is it right to be angry?

(17.) Why did Jesus cure people miserably in those days and not in these?

THE MISTY PAST

Archaeologists Make Remarkable Discoveries in Old Hittite Capital.

Berlin, April 11.—Details have been received of further discoveries by Baron Oppenheim of Cologne at Tel-halep, the Hittite capital of the fourteenth century B. C. Gigantic foundations which are supposed to be those of a royal palace were excavated and piling revealed a series of stone reliefs in almost perfect condition. One hundred and seventy of these sculptures were unearthed.

Some of these figures were noteworthy. One was that of an enthroned king, facing Assyrian-like bull men who bore a symbol of the sun. Another figure was similar to Hercules. It was clothed in a lion's skin and carried a club. One of the most elaborate figures represents a bearded man being fettered to two youths who are kneeling between his legs. Baron Oppenheim believes this figure symbolizes the triumph of spring over winter.

Two colossal basaltic figures of animals were discovered. They apparently guarded the palace gate. No further inscriptions are reported as having been found.

A TRIAL WILL CONVINC ANYONE—THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY NEVER DISAPPOINTS.

A few years ago I was troubled with a complication of kidney and stomach ailments and although I tried two or three different doctors, I was unable to obtain a cure. Having heard a great deal about Swamp-Root, I decided to give it a trial and purchased a one-dollar bottle of Mr. Alexander, the druggist. From the beginning I could notice a change for the better and after taking eight bottles of your medicine, I felt entirely cured and have not had any trouble since.

Had I used Swamp-Root sooner, I would have been a few hundred dollars to the good and saved myself a lot of suffering.

You may use my testimonial any time you wish. Yours very truly,

CHARLES E. HARRIS,
460 Sixth St. Marion, Iowa.

I certify that Charles E. Harris signed the above testimonial in my presence, being first duly sworn to the truth thereof, this 12th day of July, 1909.

Tribesmen attacked a French flying column west of Debdu, Morocco. The French lost one officer-killed and four wounded and had twenty men killed and sixty-three wounded. The tribesmen were dispersed.

The outgo of Uncle Sam's cash on the Panama canal when the great waterway is in operation will be over $30,000,000 a year, according to Emery E. Johnson, special commissioner on Panama traffic and tolls by appointment of President Taft.

Officials and workmen engaged in building the Panama canal now are making a race against time in order to fulfill the promise of Colonel Goethals, the chief engineer, that ships will be enabled to pass through the canal by the end of next year.

The war department has asked congress to appropriate $3,587,000 for the erection of a permanent camp in Panama sufficiently large to accommodate three regiments of infantry, twelve companies of coast artillery, one battalion of field artillery and a squadron

Fifty Years Ago Today. April 12.

The Confederates first used an army balloon at Yorktown to offset Professor Lowe's Federal balloon, which was in the air every day. John Randolph Bryan of General Magruder's staff was the aeronaut.

France and England were discussing the Monitor-Merrimac affair. The Duke of Somerset (Lord Raglan) said that England would launch ten ironclads in 1862 and five more in 1863. Napoleon III. declared that the Monitor could whip the best navy afloat.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

The principal part of St. Augustine, Fla., the oldest town in the United States, burned.

Fortunes In Faces.

There's often much truth in the saying "her face is her fortune," but it's never said where pimples, skin eruptions, blotches, or other blemishes disfigure it. Impure blood is back of them all, and shows the need of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They promote health and beauty. Try them. 25 cents at The Andrews Drug Co.

Affronted Sympathies.

"Most of the deer has left this part of the country." "Yes," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "You know a deer is a tender-hearted kind of an animal, and I s'pose the critters couldn't stand it to hang around an' see the way them hunters shot one another up."

A Log On the Track

of the fast express means serious trouble ahead if not removed, so does loss of appetite. It means lack of vitality, loss of strength and nerve weakness. If appetite fails, take Electric Bitters quickly to overcome the cause by toning up the stomach and curing the indigestion. Michael Hesseimer, of Lincoln, Neb., had been sick over three years, but six bottles of Electric Bitters put him right on his feet again. They have helped thousands. They give pure blood, strong nerves, good digestion. Only 50 cents at The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

Spectacular Mourning Out of Date.

"Spectacular mourning is not so popular as it was some years ago," said the manager of a city department store in answer to an inquiry on that subject. "There is still a large business done in all kinds of mourning goods, but either the somber period has grown shorter or many bereaved persons prefer not to be conspicuous because of their sorrows, for the sale of mourning goods has fallen off. In the stationery department there seems to be no change—in fact, the demand for black bordered cards and writing paper has increased." To illustrate the quality of some "show mournings" he said: "At a stationery establishment a short time ago a woman in deepest black asked to see samples of dinner dance cards. She selected one and ordered one hundred to be done on black bordered cards, compromising with her conscience by suggesting that the border be not too heavy."

S.S.S. MAKES A LASTING CURE

Not only its proven ability to cure, but its absolute safety as a remedy, has made S. S. S. the most extensively used of all medicines in the treatment of Contagious Blood Poison. Unlike the strong mineral mixtures, which temporarily remove the outward symptoms and shut the disease up in the system, there to carry on its destructive work on the delicate and vital organs, S. S. S. strikes directly at the root, and by purifying the blood of every trace of the virus, completely and permanently cures the trouble. S. S. S. is Nature's blood purifier, harmless in its action and certain in its good results. It is made from a combination of roots and herbs, each of which has a definite and specific action in purifying the blood. Years were spent in selecting and proportioning the different ingredients, but when S. S. S. was perfected it soon demonstrated its superiority over all other blood medicines, and now, after 40 years, it is still the one and only certain cure for Contagious Blood Poison. While driving out the poison from the circulation S. S. S. builds up and strengthens the system by its fine vegetable tonic effects. If you are suffering with Contagious Blood Poison S. S. S. is your most certain reliance, and because of its freedom from mercury, potash or any other mineral, it is absolutely safe for every one. ## $100-Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

George Cook, who has been sick for some time, is improving.

William Weaver, who left here the first of March for Pittsburg, Pa., is here visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Clark. He will leave in a few days for Bridgeport, Ills., where he has accepted a position.

C. A. Plumly, the new trainmaster of the Indiana division of the B. & O. S-W. will move to Seymour from Cincinnati next week and will occupy the house vacated by Fred Mitchell who has been transferred to the Illinois division as superintendent.

General Manager Arthur Thompson of the B. & O. has been made third vice-president in charge of operation. F. C. Batchelder has been made vice-president of the B. & O. Chicago Terminal road. He had been superintendent with headquarters in Chicago.

Robert Mullis, a young man whose home is at Tunnelton, has been sent to the epileptic village at New Castle. He has caused his family considerable trouble and some time ago was declared of unsound mind. A few months ago he upset a light and very nearly burned to death and recently after an argument cut a young man badly about the face.

Man Breaks Down.

A Strasburg, Pa., man, Martin B. Burkhardt, has just had a remarkable experience. Some months ago he noticed his health failing and in spite of all he could do, soon found himself in that condition which everyone dreads—"general breakdown."

In a letter he says: "It seemed as if my health was ruined and I never would be strong again. Various other medicines did me no good but I began to take Vinol and it has done me a wonderful amount of good. I am now as well as I ever was, have gained twelve pounds, my appetite is good, I sleep soundly, and feel like a new man. All credit is due to Vinol."

He is only one of many thousands who have been built up to health by our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil. All who are broken in health, run-down, weak and nervous, should profit by his experience and again regain their health by the use of Vinol. We guarantee that it will build you up and make you strong—your money is given back if it does not. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

MRS. J. C. LEONARD
